Concerning Iwama-Ryu (Iwama Style) Aikido

Iwama-Ryu techniques are very different from many of the techniques which are currently practiced at the AIKIKAI HOMBUDOUJO.

Iwama-Ryu has faithfully preserved the techniques of Morihei Ueshiba O'Sensei, the founder of Aikido. Iwama-Ryu is a martial art based on the union of Ken, Jo and Taijitsu.

Regarding the weapons techniques, they are the basis for BUDO as it was originally taught at Iwama. Morihiro Saito Sensei has over the years arranged the techniques of the founder in to unique training forms. He has used these forms to give students a more effective understanding of Aikido as it was taught by the Founder. These techniques are taught only in Iwama and are therefore essentially different from those of the AIKIKAI HOMBUDOUJO.

So from now on Iwama Style Aikido will be called Iwama-Ryu and Saito Sensei will do everything possible to encourage its growth.

DOJO ETIQUETTE

To benefit and enjoy training in Aikido, to create an atmosphere of mutual respect among the students and teachers, and for safety there are certain rules of etiquette that are followed in the dojo.

- Upon entering and leaving the dojo you should do a standing bow towards the shomen.
- Bow when stepping on and off the mat.
- Sweeping the mats before each class from inside to out. Never sweep towards the shomen.
- Class is begun and closed with a formal bow towards the shomen and then the Sensei (instructor)
- You should be on time for class, preferably early; but if you must be late, please bow in alone.
- During class the instructor should be addressed as Sensei.
- Before, beginning and after training with your partner, they should be thanked with a sitting bow, the same also when the teacher gives you instruction.
- Please remove all jewelry and keep your toenails and fingernails short.
- Make sure your feet are clean before stepping on the mat. Wear shoes when off the mat.
- Pay monthly dues by the 5th of each month.
- Indicate with a “ / “ the days you train. If you mistakenly mark the wrong day, mark with “X”

Aikido is more than just a physical form for self-defense. It is a physical, mental and spiritual path for growth and development, and therefore the greatest understanding is gained when each motion is done with your whole body, mind and spirit.

Bowing is a form of paying homage to Aikido, O Sensei, the dojo, Sensei and your training partners. Alone the bow is but a hollow shell, it is the spirit in which it is done that gives it value and meaning.

AIKI KEN SUBURI

1st Ken Suburi: Do a straight strike to the head in right hamni.

2nd Suburi: Step back with right foot while raising sword. Step forward with right foot as executing a straight strike to the head.

3rd Suburi: Step back with right foot while raising sword directly above the head as if piercing the heavens while feeling of becoming one with the universe. Lower the sword to the right. Advance forward with the right foot while doing a straight strike to the head.

4th Suburi: While alternating right and left hamnis, advance forward while doing a straight strike to the head.

5th Suburi: Raise the sword above the head, dropping the tip to the side, striking the side of the head. The movement of the feet are the same as the 4th suburi.

6th Suburi: Do the 5th suburi, following with left and right thrusts after each sword strike.

AIKI KEN AWASE

Right Awase

Attacker: Advance the right foot forward and do a straight strike to the head.

Defender: Step off to the right and do a straight strike to the head.

Attacker: The same as above

Defender: Step off to the left side and do a straight strike to the head in left hamni

5th Awase

Attacker: Strike alternately as in the 5th suburi

Defender: While stepping back alternating left and right, parry the sword directing it at your partner's center.

7th Awase (attacker and defender begin in left hamni)

Attacker: Strike and thrust as in the 7th suburi

Defender: Defend as in the 5th awase. For the thrust, parry and then knock the sword off the line of attack.
